Word Wall Homework #20

We have our last six word wall words this week. They are: then, than, whole, hole, weather, and whether.

When to use then or than?

Then is an adverb that refers to time. For example:

First you mix all of the ingredients together, then you bake the cake.

Than is a conjunction (like and, or, but) that is used when comparing. For example:

I like chocolate more than vanilla.

Choose the correct word (than or then) to fill in the blank.

1. I brushed my teeth, _____ got into bed. then/than

2. Jimmy laughed harder at the joke _____ Sally did. then/than

3. When she came home, she decided to make dinner and _____ take a shower. then/than

4. Go to the store, _____ stop by the flower shop on your way home. then/than

5. My brother is taller _____ me. then/than

6. Nothing is worse _____ missing school because you're sick. then/than

7. My dad is a much better cook _____ my mom. then/than

8. In the story, the boy accidentally forgot his book on the bus, and _____ his sister bought him a new one. then/than

9. It's not fair that she gets to stay up later _____ her brother. then/than

10. The doctor specifically said he was not to go outside until he felt better, and _____ he could go back to school. then/than

Whole / hole and weather / whether are homophones, meaning they sound the same but are spelled differently and have different meanings. Write a sentence for each showing that you know how to use it properly.
